The industrialization and modernization of the country is taking place rapidly as an inevitable process. However, accompanied with the benefits from it is the discharge of increasing amount of waste, especially a considerable amount of hazardous waste. If this material is not timely treated, it will seriously affect the environment and human health. That is not only the imperative issue of the environmental service but also of the entire society. Despite growing concerns of the local authorities to the collection and disposal of the refuse, these requirements are still not yet met due to practical constraints. That is either inadequate or weak capacity of collecting and removing the garbage. The littering is still rampant. In addition, the garbage is not classified right away at the original source. The collecting and classifying the recyclable trash is entirely done by the poor people who live on garbage dump. At present, there are SMEs which specialize in collecting and storing hazardous waste, industrial and domestic waste still have many limitations.
